Scharf Banks Marmor Launches Appellate Practice

Amidst one of the most challenging years law where firms are dealing with the global pandemic and operating virtually, Scharf Banks Marmor has launched a new Appellate Practice. The Firm is Chicago’s largest certified women-owned law firm and a leader in advancing diversity at the national and local levels. The attorneys at Scharf Banks Marmor come from leading AmLaw100 firms and Fortune 100 corporate law departments bringing a uniformly high level of education, training and experience to help clients achieve their objectives.

Scharf Banks Marmor has amassed an impressive track record of appellate victories in federal and state courts. The Firm has represented a range of corporate and individual clients, prepared “friend of the court” briefs on important cases that shape the law, and assisted with post-trial mediation and other settlement activities. “Our attorneys have extensive experience in navigating cases effectively through the courts,” stated Stephanie Scharf, a Founding Partner of the Firm and Chair of the Appeals Practice. “As a result of our experience, we are able to provide our clients with cost-effective and collaborative representation throughout the appeals process,” added Ms. Scharf.

Scharf Banks Marmor is a long-time member of NAMWOLF (the National Association of Minority and Women-Owned Law Firms) and a member of SCG Legal, one of the top law firm networks worldwide with 117 members serving clients in major commercial centers and capitals in 59 countries, every U.S. state and the District of Columbia. In addition to handling appeals of cases litigated by Scharf Banks Marmor attorneys, the Firm is pleased to team with others on appellate matters consulting and advising on trials being handled by other firms.
